Safely Surrendered Baby Law

What is the Safely Surrendered Baby Law?

This law establishes a procedure for the voluntary surrender of a baby within 72 hours of birth. Under this law, parent(s) can safely surrender their baby and be protected from prosecution for child abandonment.

Banner Lassen Medical Center, Lassen County Public Health, and the Susanville Fire Department are all safe surrender sites. Safe surrender, under the Safe Haven Law, is a program designed to save lives of newborn infants at risk of abandonment by encouraging parents with lawful custody to safely surrender the infant within 72 hours of birth, with no questions asked.

The toll-free telephone hotline number provides information and the locations of safe surrender sites. DIAL 1.877.BABY.SAF (1-877-222-9723)

The California Safely Surrendered Baby Law:

- ✓ Permits the parent(s) or surrendering person to safely and confidentially surrender a baby within three days of birth.
- ✓ Provides a safe place for babies.
- ✓ Protects the parent(s) or surrendering person from prosecution for child abandonment.
- ✓ Does not require that names be given when the baby is surrendered.
- ✓ Allows the parent(s) or surrendering person at least 14 days to reclaim the baby.

Services: Far Northern Regional Center provides the following services and supports to eligible individuals and their families:

Case Management Services: A Service Coordinator is assigned to each eligible individual to provide information, support and referral in order to assure that appropriate services are obtained. An Individual Program Plan (IPP) or Individualized Family Service Plan (IFSP) is developed and reviewed on a periodic basis.

Diagnosis and Evaluations: Developmental, hearing, medical, speech, vision, nursing, and nutritional evaluations may be provided to establish whether a person has or, in the case of an infant, is at risk for a developmental disability. These are completed by regional center staff or coordinated with service providers in the community.

Health Services: Nursing, nutrition, and medical consultation services may be provided as necessary. The regional center will fund health services which are not covered by other funding sources, if the service is directly related to the developmental disability. The regional center is also responsible for admission to and discharge from State Developmental Centers (State Hospitals)

Respite Care: Respite services may be provided to relieve family members from the demanding responsibility of caring for a person with a developmental disability. Respite care may be provided in the family home or at another location as deemed necessary.

Developmental Services: These may include infant development programs, parent education, family training, speech therapy, hearing and vision evaluations, physical and occupational therapy, psychological services, and assistive technology services.

Legal And Financial Services: These may include court ordered evaluations, limited conservatorship services, representative payee services for governmental benefits, and the like.

Eligibility: Any resident of Butte, Modoc, Siskiyou, Glenn, Plumas, Tehama, Lassen or Trinity Counties with a developmental disability, regardless of age or income; disability must have originated before the age of 18; disability must constitute a substantial handicap. Developmental Disabilities include:

intellectual disability, cerebral palsy, epilepsy, autism, and other conditions closely related to intellectual disabilities or requiring similar treatment.

Charges: In most cases, there are no costs for services unless families are involved in the Family Cost Participation Program

Child and Family Services, formally CPS, a division within State and local social services, is at the center of every community's child protection efforts. In most jurisdictions, CFS is the agency mandated by law to conduct an initial assessment or investigation of reports of child abuse and neglect. It also offers services to families and children where maltreatment has occurred or is likely to occur. CFS does not work alone. Many community professionals, including law enforcement officers, health care providers, mental health professionals, educators, legal and court system personnel, and substitute care providers, are involved in efforts to prevent, identify, investigate, and treat child abuse and neglect. In addition, community-based and faith-based organizations, substance abuse treatment facilities, advocates for victims of domestic violence, extended family members, and concerned citizens, among others, also play important roles in supporting families and keeping children safe from harm. Typically, CFS is the lead agency in coordinating the efforts of the various disciplines working to protect children and to educate the community about the problems of child abuse and neglect.

Services: Driven by a commitment to protect children and strengthen families, Lassen County Child and Family Services is dedicated to the delivery of compassionate, comprehensive and individualized services. Through collaboration and education, we strive to engage and empower families. Working together; we achieve sustainable, positive changes in our community.

COURT APPOINTED SPECIAL ADVOCACY PROGRAM (CASA)

(530) 257-4599

1306 Riverside Dr. / P.O. Box 710
Susanville, CA 96130

www.lassenfamilyservices.org/casa

What is CASA? CASA's mission is to provide specially selected and trained community volunteers to advocate for abused and neglected children in Lassen County's juvenile dependency system. The program works in collaboration with key agencies, legal counsel and community resources to ensure that each child's best interests are protected until permanency is achieved. The focus of their advocacy is on; placement, education, mental/medical health, and permanency.

What does a CASA Volunteer Do? When a CASA volunteer is appointed to a child's case, he or she is responsible for taking the time to find out as much as possible about that child. CASA volunteers search for information. They review records, interview parents, talk to teachers, neighbors, and - most importantly - support the child.

Early Childhood Education with strong support to families.

Preschool Centers

Services:

Head Start- Children receive individualized services in the areas of education, health and nutrition. Every child is evaluated for their own personal and family strengths and needs. In our centers, children receive a nutritious breakfast and lunch as well as a healthy snack. Children are encouraged to explore and grow as they adjust to structured learning environments that encourage social, emotional, and cognitive development.

Early Head Start- A program specifically for prenatal mothers, infants, and toddlers. EHS offers a variety of services in both the center based and home based models. Prenatal mothers receive individualized support and assistance to prepare for the arrival of their new baby. EHS centers offer nutritious meals and snacks as well as an opportunity for infants and toddlers to explore the environments around them and build social, emotional and cognitive skills.

Home Based- Home based services offer the freedom of learning in the child's natural environment. Staff work with families weekly to enhance learning opportunities in the home. Twice monthly socialization experiences are offered where the child is able to interact with other children.

Charges: Free to enrolled children.

Eligibility: All families with children age 0 through 4 years can apply. Priority is given to families who are low income and to children with special needs; however, we do enroll up to 10% over income families.

Services: Far Northern Regional Center provides the following services and supports to eligible individuals and their families:

Case Management Services: A Service Coordinator is assigned to each eligible individual to provide information, support and referral in order to assure that appropriate services are obtained. An Individual Program Plan (IPP) or Individualized Family Service Plan (IFSP) is developed and reviewed on a periodic basis.

Diagnosis and Evaluations: Developmental, hearing, medical, speech, vision, nursing, and nutritional evaluations may be provided to establish whether a person has or, in the case of an infant, is at risk for a developmental disability. These are completed by regional center staff or coordinated with service providers in the community.

Health Services: Nursing, nutrition, and medical consultation services may be provided as necessary. The regional center will fund health services which are not covered by other funding sources, if the service is directly related to the developmental disability. The regional center is also responsible for admission to and discharge from State Developmental Centers (State Hospitals)

Respite Care: Respite services may be provided to relieve family members from the demanding responsibility of caring for a person with a developmental disability. Respite care may be provided in the family home or at another location as deemed necessary.

Developmental Services: These may include infant development programs, parent education, family training, speech therapy, hearing and vision evaluations, physical and occupational therapy, psychological services, and assistive technology services.

Legal And Financial Services: These may include court ordered evaluations, limited conservatorship services, representative payee services for governmental benefits, and the like.

Eligibility: Any resident of Butte, Modoc, Siskiyou, Glenn, Plumas, Tehama, Lassen or Trinity Counties with a developmental disability, regardless of age or income; disability must have originated before the age of 18; disability must constitute a substantial handicap. Developmental Disabilities include: intellectual disability, cerebral palsy, epilepsy, autism, and other conditions closely related to intellectual disabilities or requiring similar treatment.

Charges: In most cases, there are no costs for services unless families are involved in the Family Cost Participation Program.

PATHWAYS TO CHILD & FAMILY EXCELLENCE

Susanville (530) 251-2997

2119 Main Street
Susanville, CA 96130

Services: The Lassen County 0 to 5 Home Visiting Program is designed to help residents with children 0 to 5 become more purposeful parents. This program is available to pregnant women and parents, both mothers and fathers who are residents of Lassen County and who have a child between the ages of birth to five years old. By building on strengths the parents already have, this program will cultivate nurturing parent-child relationships and empathetic child guidance. The Parents As Teacher's curriculum (PAT) is designed for pregnant, families and children ages birth to 5 years old. The PAT curriculum is brought to the family's home via a PAT-Parent Educator and Healthy Families America certified Home Visitor. The Home Visiting Program is funded by FIRST-5 Lassen. The Parent Educators are staffed through PATHWAYS. The program utilizes the Parent Educators in order to provide services to families that cater to each family individually and responds to all their needs that may be met by participating County Agencies. ASQ-3 developmental screening & ASQ-SE behavioral screenings for children ages 1 month to 5 and a half years are also provided by PATHWAYS staff members. Supervised Visitation services are provided on site by Certified Visitation Monitors

Early Childhood Education with strong support to families.

Preschool Centers

Services: Head Start – Children receive individualized services in the areas of education, health and nutrition. Every child is evaluated for their own personal and family strength and needs. In our centers children receive a nutritious breakfast and lunch as well as a healthy snack. Children are encouraged to explore and grow as they adjust to structured learning environments that encourage social, emotional, and cognitive development.

Early Head Start – A program specifically for prenatal mothers, infants and toddlers. EHS offers a variety of services in both the center based and home based models. Prenatal mothers receive individualized support and assistance to prepare for the arrival of their new baby. EHS centers offer nutritious meals and snacks as well as an opportunity for infants and toddlers to explore the environments around them and build social, emotional and cognitive skills.

Home Based - services offer the freedom of learning in the child's natural environment Staff work with families weekly to enhance learning opportunities in the home. Twice monthly socialization experiences are offered where the child is able to interact with other children.

Charges: Free to children enrolled

Eligibility: All families with children age 0 through 4 years can apply. Priority is given to families who are low income and to children with special needs; however, we do enroll up to 10% over income families.

Services: Far Northern Regional Center provides the following services and supports to eligible individuals and their families:

Case Management Services: A Service Coordinator is assigned to each eligible individual to provide information, support and referral in order to assure that appropriate services are obtained. An Individual Program Plan (IPP) or Individualized Family Service Plan (IFSP) is developed and reviewed on a periodic basis.

Diagnosis and Evaluations: Developmental, hearing, medical, speech, vision, nursing, and nutritional evaluations may be provided to establish whether a person has or, in the case of an infant, is at risk for a developmental disability. These are completed by regional center staff or coordinated with service providers in the community.

Health Services: nursing, nutrition, and medical consultation services may be provided as necessary. The regional center will fund health services which are not covered by other funding sources, if the service is directly related to the developmental disability. The regional center is also responsible for admission to and discharge from State Developmental Centers (State Hospitals)

Respite Care: Respite services may be provided to relieve family members from the demanding responsibility of caring for a person with a developmental disability. Respite care may be provided in the family home or at another location as deemed necessary.

Developmental Services: These may include infant development programs, parent education, family training, speech therapy, hearing and vision evaluations, physical and occupational therapy, psychological services, and assistive technology services.

Legal And Financial Services: These may include court ordered evaluations, limited conservatorship services, representative payee services for governmental benefits, and the like.

Eligibility: Any resident of Butte, Modoc, Siskiyou, Glenn, Plumas, Tehama, Lassen or Trinity Counties with a developmental disability, regardless of age or income; disability must have originated before the age of 18; disability must constitute a substantial handicap. Developmental Disabilities include: intellectual disability, cerebral palsy, epilepsy, autism, and other conditions closely related to intellectual disabilities or requiring similar treatment.

Charges: In most cases, there are no costs for services unless families are involved in the Family Cost Participation Program

By building on strengths the parents already have, this program will cultivate nurturing parent-child relationships and empathetic child guidance. The Parents As Teacher's curriculum (PAT) is designed for pregnant women, families and children ages birth to 5 years old. The PAT curriculum is brought to the family's home via a PAT-Parent Educator and Healthy Families America certified Home Visitor. The Home Visiting Program is funded by FIRST-5 Lassen. The Parent Educators are staffed through PATHWAYS. The program utilizes the Parent Educators in order to provide services to families that cater to each family individually and responds to all their needs that may be met by participating County Agencies. ASQ-3 developmental screening & ASQ-SE behavioral screenings for children ages 1 month to 5 and a half years are also provided by PATHWAYS staff members. Supervised Visitation services are provided on site by Certified Visitation Monitors.

Emergency Preparedness Guide

How to Use 9-1-1

Call 9-1-1 only to report a life-threatening situation requiring police, medical or fire emergency assistance. Do not call 9-1-1 unnecessarily. 9-1-1 lines must be kept open for people with true emergencies.

When to call 9-1-1

- To get help for someone who is hurt. For example:
 - If someone is seriously injured.
 - If you see someone hurt in an accident.
- If you see someone acting suspiciously, stealing, or breaking into a home or building.
- If you smell smoke or see a fire.
- If you see someone being robbed or beaten.
- If you believe emergency assistance may be needed but are not sure, call 9-1-1 and describe the situation.
- If you call 9-1-1 by accident, don't hang up. Explain what happened to the 9-1-1 operator.

When not to call 9-1-1

In the event of a natural disaster or emergency, minimize your calls to 9-1-1 unless it's a life-threatening police, medical or fire emergency. The following guide should help you determine when it is appropriate to call 9-1-1 in a disaster.

- Never call 9-1-1 as a joke.
- Never call 9-1-1 to ask for information.
- Never call just to see if 9-1-1 is working.
- Stay off the telephone unless you have a critical need to make a telephone call.
- Do not call 9-1-1 unless you need emergency response from police, fire or emergency medical personnel.
- If you experience other types of problems not related to these emergency services, call the appropriate telephone number for those services.

Other emergency phone tips

- If you pick up your telephone to make a call and do not hear a dial tone, do not hang up. Simply wait a few seconds, and you will get a dial tone and be able to make your call.
- Do you have an out-of-area contact? In an emergency, local phone lines could be jammed. If you have a friend or relative to call long distance, you should be able to get through. Your family can leave messages for each other and you can let people know you're okay.

What to say when you call 9-1-1

- Tell the person what is wrong.
- Tell the person your name, address and telephone number.
- Do not hang up until they tell you that you should; they may have to ask you more questions.

Keep phone lines clear during emergencies

- During emergencies, telephone services become overloaded. You can help keep service available for those who need it most by making only calls that are critical. Limit fax machine and computer use as well; their use also ties up phone lines.

What if a 9-1-1 caller doesn't speak English?

- When necessary, a 9-1-1 call take can add an interpreter from an outside service to the line. A caller may hear a short conversation in English & some clicking sounds as the interpreter is added to the line.

Helping Children After a Disaster

It's important to remember some children may never show distress, while others may not give evidence of being upset for several weeks or even months after an emergency.

Other children may not show a change in behavior, but may still need your help.

Children could exhibit the following behaviors after a disaster:

- Be upset or over the loss of a favorite toy or possession that is important to them
- Change from being quiet, obedient and caring to loud, noisy and aggressive, or change from being outgoing to shy and afraid.
- Develop night-time fears (nightmares, fear of the dark or sleeping alone).
- Be Afraid the event will reoccur.
- Become easily upset.
- Lose trust in adults. (After all, their adults were not able to control the disaster.)
- Revert to younger behavior (bed-wetting, thumb-sucking).
- Want to stay close to parents. Refuse to go to school or daycare.
- Feel they caused the disaster because of something they said or did.
- Become afraid of wind, rain or sudden loud noises.
- Have symptoms of illness, such as headaches, vomiting or fever.
- Worry about where they and their family will live.
- Assure fearful children you will be there to care for them; consistently reassure them.
- Go back to former routines as soon as possible. Maintain a regular schedule for children.
- Reassure children that the disaster was not their fault.
- Let children have some control, such as choosing clothing or what meal to have for dinner.
- Re-establish contact with extended family.
- Health your children learn to trust adults again by keeping promises you make.
- Help your children regain faith in the future by making plans.
- Get needed health care³ as soon as possible.
- Spend extra time with your children at bedtime
- Make sure children eat healthy meals and get enough rest.
- Allow special privileges for short period of time, such as leaving the light on when they go to bed.
- Find ways to emphasize to your children that you love them.
- Allow children time to grieve losses.
- Develop positive anniversary activities to commemorate the event. These may bring tears, but they are also a time to celebrate survival and the ability to get back to a normal life.

Things parents can do to help their children

- Talk with children about how they are feeling, assure them that it's okay to have those feelings.
- Help children learn to use words that express their feelings, such as "happy," "sad," or "angry."
- Children should not be expected to be brave or tough. Tell them it's okay to cry.
- Don't give children more information than they can handle about the disaster.

Children are able to cope better with a traumatic event if parents and other adults support and help them with their experiences. Help should start as soon as possible after the event.

Getting Medicine During A Public Health Emergency

The Strategic National Stockpile is a federal government program that provides Medication and medical supplies to states during an emergency

When Help is needed fast

If a disease outbreak, bioterrorism attack or natural disaster happens in California, thousands—possibly millions—of people will need medical attention to treat or prevent the spread of disease. Local medical supplies and medications will be used up quickly during such a public health emergency.

The Strategic National Stockpile (SNS) helps meet the need for additional supplies by quickly delivering large quantities of critical emergency medicines and supplies to states that request them.

In the event of a disaster, outbreak or attack our Governor will ask the federal government to send SNS shipments to California. Once help is approved, the SNS will fill the request from storage facilities strategically located around the country. Supplies can be delivered to any state within 12 hours of the request. Depending on the type of emergency, the SNS will deliver antibiotics, chemical antidotes, antitoxins or other medical or surgical items. Additional drugs and/or medical supplies can be supplied with the following 24 to 36 hours.

When SNS shipments are received, California's emergency response workers will immediately deliver the supplies and medications directly to the communities that need them.

Finding medications during an emergency

- Cities and towns in California will set up emergency medication centers (also known as points of dispensing sites known as PODS) where people can pick up the emergency medications or receive vaccinations. Medication centers will be located in large public buildings such as schools, arenas or churches in several geographic areas to minimize the amount of time people need to travel to reach them.

Your local Health Department will announce when medication centers will open, where to find them, how to get there, what to bring and what to expect. You will be able to get this important information from sources that include:

- Television and radio news; newspapers.
- State and local public health and emergency management websites.
- Community, civic and religious organizations.

Local governments are responsible for determining the location of medication centers in their areas. In many cases these sites will not be made public until an emergency occurs. Not all medication center sites will be used for every emergency, so it will be important to check the resources listed above for current information in the event of an emergency.

At the medication center

- If medication centers are opened to distribute medicine from the SNS in an emergency, there will be no charge to the public.
- Trained staff will be available to assist you at the medication center.
- The process will be simple.
- Depending on the type of emergency, one person may be able to pick up medications for a household or group.
- Check the resources listed above for current information in the event of an emergency.

Household Fires

Fires in homes are most often caused by cooking accidents, smoking or unsafe Use of woodstoves or space heaters. Here are some things you can do to avoid a home fire or protect yourself during a fire.

Protecting against fires

- Install smoke detectors in or near all sleeping areas and on every level of your home, including the basement. Check smoke detectors on a regular basis and replace the batteries twice yearly.
- Have A-B-C type fire extinguishers; teach family members how to use them.
- Know the location of all exits including windows. If you live in an apartment, count the number of doorways between your apartment and the two nearest exits.
- Know two ways out of every room in case smoke or flames block your primary exit.
- Choose a meeting place outside the home.
- Have an escape plan and practice it with your family. This will help ensure you can get out quickly when there is no time for mistakes.
- Keep folding or chain style ladders stored in each upstairs bedroom.
- Use alternative heat sources, such as woodstoves or space heaters, safely:
 - Never use gas ovens, gas ranges, barbecues, or most portable or propane heaters for indoor heating.
 - Before using an alternative heat source, read the manufacturer's instructions.
- Do not smoke in the bedroom, or on the couch or anywhere you might fall asleep while smoking.
- Sleep with your bedroom door closed.
- Make sure your hose number is clearly visible from the street and that fire trucks can reach your home.
- Have fire-fighting materials available; dry powder, fire extinguisher, heavy tarp or blanket, and water.

If the fire strikes

- If there is a fire – evacuate. Do not go back inside. Call 9-1-1 from a neighbor's house.
- Never use water on an electrical fire.
- Smother oil and grease fires in the kitchen with baking soda or salt, or put a lid over the flame if it's burning in a pan.
- If caught in smoke – drop to your hands and knees and crawl; breathe shallowly through your nose and use your blouse, shirt or jacket as a filter.
- If you must move through flames – hold your breath, move quickly, cover your head and hair, keep your head down and close your eyes as much as possible.
- If your clothes catch fire, “stop, drop and roll” until the fire is out.
- If you are in a room and cannot escape, leave the door closed, stay low to the floor and hang a white or light-colored sheet outside the window.
- Be sure all family members are accounted for. If someone is missing, let the fire department know.

Stop.

Drop.

Roll.

Floods

Floods are the most common and widespread of all natural disasters. If you live in an area where floods occur, you should know the following:

What to do before a flood

- Plan for evacuation and including where you are going to go and the route you will follow.
- Prepare your home for a flood. Call your local building department or office of emergency management for information.
- Purchase flood insurance.
- Keep all insurance policies and a list of valuable items in a safe place.
- Take photos or a video of the valuables you keep in your home.
- Listen to your radio or television for reports of flood danger.
- Keep your car filled with gas.

What to do during a flood

- Do not try to walk or drive through flooded areas. Water can be deeper than it appears and water levels rise quickly. Follow official emergency evacuation routes. If your car stalls in floodwater, get out quickly and move to higher ground.
- Stay away from moving water; moving water six inches deep can sweep you off your feet. Cars are easily swept away in just two feet of water.
- Stay away from disaster areas unless authorities ask for volunteers.
- Stay away from downed powerlines.
- If your home is flooded, turn the utilities off until emergency officials tell you it is safe to turn them on. Do not pump the basement out until floodwater recedes. Avoid weakened floors, walls and rooftops.
- Wash your hands frequently with soap and clean water if you come in contact with floodwaters.
- Do not allow your children or pets to play in floodwaters. Flood waters may contain sharp objects, such as glass or metal fragments, that can cause injury and lead to infection.

What to do after a flood

- Wear gloves and boots when cleaning up.
- Open all doors and windows. Use fans if possible to air out the building.
- Wash all clothes and linens in hot water.
- Discard mattresses and stuffed furniture; they can't be adequately cleaned.
- Wash dirt and mud from walls, counters and hard surfaces floors with soap and water.
- Disinfect by wiping surfaces with a solution of one cup bleach per gallon of water.
- Discard all food that has come into contact with floodwater. Canned food is alright, but thoroughly wash the can before opening.
- If your well is flooded, your tap water is probably unsafe. If you have public water, the environmental health department will let you know –through radio and television – if your water is not safe to drink. Until your water is safe, use cleaned bottled water.
- Learn how to purify water. If you have a well, learn how to decontaminate it. You can get these instructions by contacting your local environmental health department.
- Do not use your septic system when water is standing on the ground around it. The ground below will not absorb water from sinks or toilets. When the soil has dried, it is probably safe to again use your septic system. To be sure, contact your local environmental health department.
- When floodwaters have receded, watch out for weakened road surfaces.
- Be aware of potential chemical hazards you may encounter during flood recovery. Flood waters may have buried or moved hazardous chemical containers of solvents or other industrial chemicals from their normal storage places.

Hot Weather Precautions

Severe heat may cause illness or even death. When temperatures rise to extreme high, reduce risks by taking the following precautions:

Hot weather precautions to reduce the risk of heat exhaustion and heat stroke

- Stay indoors and in an air-conditioned environment as much as possible unless you're sure your body has a high tolerance for heat.
- Drink plenty of fluids but avoid beverages that contain alcohol, caffeine or a lot of sugar.
- Eat more frequently but make sure meals are balanced and light.
- Never leave any person or pet in a parked vehicle.
- Avoid dressing babies in heavy clothing or wrapping them in warm blankets.
- Check frequently on people who are elderly, ill or who may need help. If you might need help, arrange to have family, friends or neighbors check in with you at least twice a day throughout warm weather periods.
- Make sure pets have plenty of water.
- Salt tablets should only be taken if specified by your doctor. If you are on a salt-restrictive diet, check with a doctor before increasing salt intake.
- If you take prescription diuretics, antihistamines, mood-altering or antispasmodic drugs, check with a doctor about the effects of sun and heat exposure.
- Cover windows that receive morning or afternoon sun. Awnings or louvers can reduce the heat entering a house by as much as 80 percent.

If you go outside

- Plan strenuous outdoor activities for early or late in the day when temperatures are cooler.
- Take frequent breaks when working outdoors and, wear a wide-brimmed hat, sun block and light-colored, loose-fitting clothes when outdoors.
- At first signs of heat illness (dizziness, nausea, headaches, muscle cramps), move to a cooler location, rest for a few minutes and slowly drink a cool beverage. Seek medical attention immediately if you do not feel better.
- Avoid sunburn: it slows the skin's ability to cool itself. Use a sunscreen lotion with a high SPF (sun protection factor) rating.
- Avoid extreme temperature changes. A Cool shower immediately after coming in from hot temperatures can result in hypothermia particularly for elderly or very young people.

If the power goes out or air conditioning is not available

- If air conditioning is not available, stay on the lowest floor out of the sunshine.
- Ask your doctor about any prescription medicine you keep refrigerated. (If the power goes out, most medicine will be fine to leave in a closed refrigerator for at least three hours)
- Keep a few bottles of water in your freezer; if the power goes out, move them to your refrigerator and keep the doors shut.
- Your local health department will announce if a cooling center has been opened. This will provide a safe environment to cool off and take refrigerated medications.

Get Ready! Prepare Your Household for Emergencies Stay Ready!

After a disaster, you and your family should be prepared to be on your own for at least three days. In some emergencies, such as an influenza pandemic, you may need to prepare for a week or more. Emergency response teams will be very busy and may not be able to provide immediate care to all who need it.

Before a disaster strikes

- Choose a place for your family to meet after a disaster.
- Choose a person outside the immediate area for family members to contact in case you get separated. This person should live far enough away so he or she won't be involved in the same emergency.
- Know how to contact your children at their school or daycare, and how to pick them up after a disaster. Let the school know if someone else is authorized to pick them up. Keep your child's emergency release card up to date.
- Put together an emergency supply kit for your home and workplace. If your child's school or daycare stores personal emergency kits, make one for your child to keep there.
- Know where the nearest fire and police stations are located.
- Learn your community's warning signals, what they sound like and what you should do when you hear them.
- Learn first aid and CPR. Have a first aid kit, a first aid manual and extra medicine for family members.
- Learn how to shut off your water, gas and electricity. Know where to find shut-off valves and switches.
- Keep a small amount of cash available. If the power is out, ATM machines won't work.
- If you have family members who don't speak English, prepare emergency cards in English with their names, addresses and information about medications or allergies. Make sure they can find their cards at all times.

- Conduct earthquake and fire drills every six months.
- Make copies of your vital records, photos, video of your home and store them in a safe deposit box in another city or state.
- Make sure family members know all the possible ways to get out of your home. Keep all exits clear.
- Make sure all family members agree on an emergency plan. Give emergency information to babysitters or other caregivers.

During an emergency or disaster

- Keep calm and take time to think. Give assistance where needed.
- Listen to your radio or television for official information and instructions.
- Use the telephone for emergency calls only.
- If you are ordered to evacuate, take your emergency kit and follow official directions to a safe place or temporary shelter.

After the emergency or disaster is over

- Use caution in entering damaged buildings and homes.
- Stay away from damaged electrical wires and wet appliances.
- Check food and water supplies for contamination.
- Notify your relatives that you are safe. But don't tie up phone lines; they may be needed for emergency calls.
- If government disaster assistance is available, the news media will announce where to go apply.

Disaster Tips for People with Mobility Disabilities

Storage

- Store emergency supplies in a pack or backpack attached to a walker, or wheelchair or scooter.
- Store needed mobility aids (canes, crutches, walkers, wheelchairs) close to you in a consistent, convenient and secured location.
- Keep extra aids in several locations, if possible

Emergency supply kit

- Keep a pair of heavy gloves in your supply kit to use while wheeling or making way over glass or debris.
- If you use a motorized wheelchair or scooter, consider having an extra battery available. A car battery can be substituted for a wheelchair battery, but this type of battery will not last as long as a wheelchair's deep-cycled battery. Check with your vendor to see if you will be able to charge batteries by either connecting jumper cables to a vehicle battery or by connecting batteries to a specific type of converter that plugs into your vehicle's cigarette lighter in the event of loss of electricity.
- If your chair does not have puncture-proof tires, keep a patch kit or can of "seal-in" air product to repair flat tires, or keep an extra supply of inner tubes.
- Store a lightweight manual wheelchair, if available.
- Make sure furniture is secured so that it doesn't block the pathways you normally travel.

- If you spend time above the first floor of a building with an elevator, plan and practice using alternative methods of evacuation. If needed, enlist the help of your personal support network.
- If you cannot use stairs, discuss lifting and carrying techniques that will work for you. There will be times when wheelchair users will have to leave their chairs behind in order to safely evacuate a structure.
- Sometimes transporting someone down stairs is not a practical solution unless there is at least two or more strong people to control the chair. It is very important to discuss the safest way to transport you if you need to be carried, and alert helpers to any areas of vulnerability. For example, the traditional "firefighter's carry" may be hazardous for some people with respiratory weakness.
- Be prepared to give helpers brief instructions on the best way to move you.
- Contact your local health department to sign up for the functional needs disaster registry. Being on the registry does not necessarily guarantee that you will get help first during the many demands of a disaster; however, disaster workers will be aware that you need special assistance and it will be a priority to ensure that you receive needed assistance.

Pandemic Flu

An influenza pandemic is a worldwide outbreak of a new flu virus

An influenza – or flu – pandemic is an outbreak of a new type of flu virus that spreads rapidly from one country to another. Because the virus is new, people have no natural immunity to it and vaccine will not be available for many months. Without vaccine or immunity, the virus passes rapidly from person to person. Hundreds of thousands in our country could get sick, and many could die.

There were three large flu pandemics in the 20th century – 1918, 1957 and 1968. No one knows where or when the next flu pandemic will begin, but health officials agree that it is only a matter of time.

What to expect if an outbreak occurs

A flu pandemic could be devastating, so everyone should be prepared for the worst. With up to one-third of the workforce sick or staying home, supplies and services could be limited or disrupted.

Extraordinary measures could be required. You may be asked to stay away from other people, large public events like concerts or sports could be canceled, and schools could be closed. Health officials may issue orders to keep people with the virus at home or in special facilities. You may be asked to wear a mask in medical facilities or other public places.

A flu pandemic could last a long time. The 1918 flu pandemic lasted 18 months.

What to do now

- Know your neighbors. Encourage others to prepare.
- Be ready to help family and neighbors who are elderly or have special needs if services that they depend on aren't available.
- Know school policies about illness and absence. Make a plan for taking care of your children if schools are closed for long periods.
- Be ready to stay home from work when sick. Know work policies about sick leave, absences, time off and telecommuting.

- Encourage planning. Every workplace should have a plan for doing essential tasks if large numbers of employees are absent over many months.
- Explore ways to get your work done with less personal contact, such as increased use of e-mail and phone conferences.
- Be prepared to get by for a week or more what you have at home. Stores may not be open or may have limited supplies.
- Plan to limit the number of trips you take to shop or to run errands.

Prevent the spread of germs

The flu virus is spread from person to person when an infected person coughs, sneezes or touches things that others use. To protect yourself and others:

- Cover your mouth and nose when you cough or sneeze. Cough into your sleeve or cover your mouth and nose with a tissue.
- Wash your hands. Soap and warm water are best, but alcohol-based hand gel or disposable wipes also work.
- Don't touch your eyes, nose or mouth.
- Stay home when you're sick or have flu symptoms. Drink extra water, get plenty of rest and check with healthcare provider as needed.

Learn home-care basics

- Know how to care for someone with fever, body aches and lung congestion. During a pandemic, follow health official's instructions.
- Learn about dehydration. The flu virus causes the body to lose water through fever and sweating. Watch for weakness, fainting, dry mouth, dark concentrated urine, low blood pressure or fast pulse when lying or sitting down. These are signs of dehydration. To prevent dehydration, it is very important for a person with the flu to drink a lot of water – up to 12 glasses a day.

Protect Your Pets

Consider your pets when planning for emergencies.

Know where to take your pets in an emergency and remember their needs when creating your family preparedness kit.

Before the disaster

- Find a safe place for your pets to stay. Emergency pet shelters, animal control shelters, veterinary clinics or friends and relatives out of harm's way are all possible choices. Some hotels may allow you to bring pets; others may suspend their "no pet" rules during an emergency. Check ahead to make sure you can bring your pet.
- Make sure your pets wear current ID tags all the time, and that carriers for each pet are labeled with contact information.
- Make sure your pets are current on their vaccinations. Pet shelters may require proof of vaccinations.

During a disaster

- Keep pets in the house as emergency situations develop so you can locate them.
- Don't wait until the last minute to get ready. Warnings may be issued hours or days in advance.
- Pet shelters will be filled on a first-come first-serve basis. Call ahead to check availability. Bring the items in your pet's emergency supply kit.

If you evacuate, take your pets

- If it's not safe for you to stay in the disaster area, it's not safe for your pets. Don't leave animals inside your home, chained outside or roaming loose. They can easily be injured, lost or killed.
- If you leave, take your pet even if you think you'll be able to come home in just a few hours.
- Leave early—if you wait for an evacuation order, you may be told to leave your pets behind.

If you don't evacuate

- Keep your pets with you in a safe area of your home.
- Keep dogs on leashes and cats in carriers. Make sure they are wearing identification.
- Arrange in advance for a trusted neighbor to take your pets if you're not home during an emergency. Be sure he or she is comfortable with your pets, knows where to find them and their supplies, and has your home key.

After the disaster

Have everything ready to go. Store supplies in sturdy easy-to-carry containers. Include:

- Medications and medical records stored in a waterproof container, and a first-aid kit.
- Sturdy leashes and harnesses. A secure carrier large enough for your pet to stand comfortably. Add blankets or towels for bedding.
- Photos to help identify lost pets and prove ownership.
- Food and water for at least seven days for each pet.
- Bowls, cat litter, litter box and a manual can opener.
- Information on feeding schedules, medical conditions, behavior problems, and the name and number of your veterinarian.
- Pet beds and toys, if easy to bring.
- Newspaper, paper towels, plastic trash bags, grooming items and household bleach

Power Outages

Power outages can cause a number of safety concerns.

Knowing the following information can help:

Before a power outage

- Register life-sustaining and medical equipment with your utility company.
- Consider buying a generator. When installing a generator, follow the instructions carefully. Keep your generator outside and run a cord inside. Don't connect your generator to main service panels — it's dangerous! Be sure to place a carbon dioxide detector indoors.
- Make sure your disaster preparedness kit contains light sticks, flashlights, a battery-powered radio with extra batteries and a wind-up clock.
- Have a corded telephone available — cordless phones will not work when the power is out.
- Have a safe alternative heat source and supply of fuel. Never burn charcoal or use a generator indoors.
- If you own an electric garage door opener, know how to open the door without power.

During a power outage

- Turn off lights and electrical appliances except for the refrigerator and freezer.
- Even if it is dark, turn light switches and button on lamps or appliances to the "off" position.
- Unplug computers and other sensitive equipment to protect them from possible surges when the power is restored.
- Leave one lamp on so you will know when power is restored. Wait at least 15 minutes after power is restored before turning on other appliances.
- Conserve water, especially if you use well water.
- Never use gas ovens, gas ranges, barbecues or portable or propane heaters for indoor heating — they use oxygen and create carbon monoxide that can cause suffocation.

- Candles can cause a fire. It's far better to use battery-operated flashlights or glow sticks for lighting.
- Using a kerosene heater, gas lantern or stove inside the house can be dangerous. Maintain proper ventilation at all times to avoid a buildup of toxic fumes, and be sure to have a carbon monoxide detector.
- Stay away from downed power lines and sagging trees with broken limbs.

Keep food safe

- Use a store food carefully to prevent foodborne illness when power outages make refrigeration unavailable.
- Use foods first that can spoil most rapidly.
- Keep doors to refrigerators and freezers closed. Your refrigerator's freezer will keep food frozen for up to a day. A separate fully-loaded freezer will keep food frozen for two days.
- Use an ice chest packed with ice or snow to keep food cold. Buy dry ice to save frozen food. Do not handle dry ice with your bare hands. Use blocks or bags of ice to save refrigerator foods.
- Use caution if storing food outside during winter to keep it cold. The outside temperature varies, especially in the sun. Frozen food may thaw and refrigerator food may become warm enough to grow bacteria. Food may become warm enough to grow bacteria. Food stored outside must be secured from contamination by animals.
- If in doubt, throw it out. Throw out meat, seafood, dairy products and cooked food that does not feel cold.
- Never taste suspect food. Even if it looks and smells fine, illness-causing bacteria may be present.

Prevent the Spread of Germs

Here are some simple tips to keep respiratory infections and many other contagious diseases from spreading, especially during the cough, cold and “flu” season.

Respiratory infections affect the nose, throat and lungs; they include influenza (the “flu”), colds and pertussis (whooping cough). The germs (viruses and bacteria) that cause these infections are spread from person to person in droplets from the nose, throat and lungs of someone who is sick.

You can help stop the spread of these germs by practicing “respiratory etiquette,” or good health manners.

Here are some tips to help prevent spreading your germs to others, and to avoid catching someone else’s germs.

Keep your germs to yourself

- Cover your nose and mouth with a tissue when sneezing, coughing or blowing your nose.
- Discard used tissues in the trash as soon as you can.
- Always wash your hands after sneezing, blowing your nose, or coughing, or after touching used tissues or handkerchiefs. Wash hands often if you are sick.
- Use warm water and soap or alcohol-based hand sanitizers to wash your hands.
- Try to stay home if you have a cough or fever.
- See your doctor as soon as you can if you have a cough and fever, and follow their instructions. Take medicine as prescribed and get lots of rest.

- If asked, use face masks provided in your doctor’s office or clinic’s waiting room. Follow office and clinic staff’s instructions to help stop the spread of germs.

Keep the germs away

- Wash your hands before eating, or touching your eyes, nose or mouth.
- Wash your hands after touching anyone who is sneezing, coughing or blowing their nose.
- Don’t share things like towels, lipstick, toys or anything else that might be contaminated with respiratory germs.
- Don’t share food, utensils or beverage containers with others.

Disaster Tips for People with Special Medical Needs

In a disaster, people with special medical needs have extra concerns.
This information will help you and your family prepare for an emergency.

Medications

- Always have at least a three-day supply of all your medications. In some emergencies, such as influenza pandemic, you may need to prepare for a week or more
- Store your medications in one location in their original containers.
- Have a list of all your medications: name of medication, dose, frequency, and the name of the prescribing doctor.

Medical Supplies

- Have an extra three-day supply of any medical supplies you use, such as bandages, ostomy bags or syringes.

Electrically powered medical equipment

- For all medical equipment requiring electrical power — beds, breathing equipment, or infusion pumps — check with your medical supply company and get information regarding a back-up power source such as a battery or generator.

Oxygen and breathing equipment

- If you use oxygen, have an emergency supply (enough for at least a three-day period).
- Oxygen tanks should be securely braced so they do not fall over. Call your medical supply company regarding bracing instructions.
- If you use breathing equipment, have a three-day supply or more of tubing, solutions and medications.

Intravenous (IV) and feeding tube equipment

- Know if your infusion pump has battery back-up, and how long it would last in an emergency.
- Ask your home care provider about manual infusion techniques in case of a power outage.

Emergency bag

- In the event that you have to leave your home, keep a bag packed at all times that contains:
 - A medication list.
 - Medical supplies for at least three days.
 - Copies of vital medication papers such as insurance.

People who can help

- An important part of being prepared for a disaster is planning with family, friends and neighbors. Know who can walk to your home to assist you if no other means of transportation is available.
- Discuss your disaster plans with your home healthcare provider.
- Ask your local fire department if they keep a list of people with special medical needs; ask to be included if they do maintain a list.
- Keep a phone contact list handy of people who can help.

Prepare Your Vehicle for Emergencies

When planning for emergencies, don't forget your vehicle: make sure your car, truck or van is in good working order, and keep an emergency supply kit handy.

Get your vehicle ready

- Keep an emergency supply kit in your vehicle.
- Prepare to be on your own for at least 24 hours.
- Write the date on all food and water stored in your kit. Replace items every six months.
- Keep food items in airtight plastic bags inside your kit

Emergency supplies for your vehicle

- One gallon of water per person. Store water in large soft-drink containers.
- Avoid using containers such as milk cartons or glass bottles that will decompose or break.
- Emergency food. Avoid foods that will make you thirsty. Choose whole grain cereals and foods with high liquid content. Include food for infants and others with special diets.
- Small shovel, jumper cables, tow chain
- Road flare
- Battery-operated radio/extra batteries
- Flashlight and extra batteries
- ABC-type fire extinguisher
- Whistle
- Plastic storage bags
- Extra cash
- A supply of vital medications
- Sturdy shoes, socks, work gloves
- Rain gear
- Mylar blankets, plastic shelter tarps
- Matches in a water proof container
- Latex gloves (at least 2 pair)
- Map of the area (for locating shelters)
- Compass
- Games and books for kids
- Toilet paper, towelettes, personal hygiene items
- Infant diapers and wipes

Driving in difficult conditions

- Drive with your headlights on.
- Fill the fuel tank before entering open country. Stop to fill up long before the tank begins to run low.
- Don't try to out-drive the conditions.
- Start early. Remember the posted speed limit is for dry pavement.
- Leave plenty room to stop.
- Brake carefully. It takes more time to stop in adverse conditions.
- Look farther ahead in traffic than you normally do to gain extra time to safely react to situations.
- Drive cautiously near trucks.

Winter driving

- Be prepared with good winter tires, chains, a scraper, and a bag of sand for traction on ice.
- Carry extra winter clothing — the first rule of winter comfort and survival is to stay dry.
- Don't use cruise control in wintry conditions. A brief touch of your brakes to deactivate the cruise control feature can cause you to lose control of your vehicle.
- Remember: A four-wheel drive vehicle can lose traction on ice just as easily as a two-wheel drive vehicle.
- Make sure your car is in good working condition. Check the following:

Ignition system	Wiper blades
Fuel system	Washer fluid
Seat belts	Tire tread/pressure
Fluid levels	Defroster
Brakes	Proper grade oil
Exhaust system	Cooling system
Battery	Lights
Antifreeze

Disaster Tips for People with Visual Disabilities

Canes

- If you use a cane, keep extras in strategic, consistent and secured location at work, home, school and volunteer site to help you maneuver around obstacles and hazards.
- Keep a spare cane in your emergency kit.

Alternative mobility cues

- If you have some vision, place security lights in each room to light paths of travel. These lights plug into electric wall outlets and light up automatically if there is a loss of power. They will, depending on type, continue to operate automatically for 1 to 6 hours. They can also be turned off manually and used as a short-lasting flashlight.
- Store high-powered flashlights with wide beams and extra batteries.
- Plan for losing the auditory clues you usually rely on after a major disaster.

Service animals may become confused, frightened or disoriented during and after a disaster. Keep them confined or securely leashed or harnessed. A leash/harness is an important item for managing a nervous or upset animal. Be prepared to use alternative ways to negotiate your environment.

Label supplies

- If helpful, mark emergency supplies with large print, fluorescent tape or Braille.

Secure computers

- Anchor special equipment and large pieces of furniture such as computers and shelving. Create a computer back-up system for important data and store it off site.

Advocacy issues

- Advocate that TV news not only post important phone numbers, but also announce them slowly and repeat them frequently for people who cannot read the screen.

Wildfires

Forest fires and wildfires threaten lives and destroy homes and natural resources.
You can take action now that can help save lives and help prevent or reduce damage caused by wildfires

What to do before a wildfire

- Have an evacuation plan. You may need to leave your home to go to a safe place.
- Know where you are going and the possible routes to get there.
- Designate a “safety zone” in case all evacuation routes are burning.
- If you have special physical or medical needs, be sure to have an ample supply of medication and supplies to take with you if you evacuate. People with heart and lung diseases must be especially careful around wood smoke. Discuss your emergency plans with your medical provider.
- Make emergency plans for your pets and livestock.
- Family members should have an out-of-area contact they can call to let them know they are safe when they are separated. Prepare wallet cards with the contact’s information.
- Put together a 72-hour emergency supply kit. Include water, food, protective clothing — sturdy shoes, cotton or wool clothing, long pants, long-sleeved shirt, gloves and a handkerchief. Store in easy-to-carry packs.
- Store copies of your vital records and lists, photos or videotapes of valuable items in a safety deposit box. Include insurance policies.
- Identify local radio and television stations. They will have the latest information about fires in your area.
- Prepare your home for a wildfire. Clearly mark all driveways with names/addresses. Remove firewood, shrubs and other combustibles away from the home. Call your local fire, forestry, or natural resources office or go to www.lassenfiresafecouncil.org for more information.
- Talk to your neighbors about wildfire safety and working together during a wildfire.

- Always call your local fire department before burning. Be careful when cooking outdoors or using gas-powered equipment on dry, windy days.

When wildfire threatens

- Remain calm. Listen to the radio and television for fire reports and evacuation information. Follow the advice given by authorities. (However, if you feel threatened, do not wait to leave.)
- Tell family and friends you may need to evacuate and let them know where you are going. Use your out-of-area contact card.
- Pre-load your car with emergency supplies, vital records and other valuables. Face your vehicle in the direction of escape. Keep pets confined nearby.
- Put on protective clothing to protect your body, face and lungs.
- Prepare a note to post at your home that tells when you left and where you are going.
- Set up a ladder, garden hoses and sprinklers on the roof. To conserve water, wait until the embers start falling.

If advised to evacuate, do so immediately

- If there is time — close all windows, vents and doors, and remove lightweight curtains.
- Shut off gas utilities. Turn on your home lights and lock your doors.
- Post your prepared note on the main entrance.
- Choose a route away from fire hazards. Drive with your lights on and watch for emergency vehicles.
- If your evacuation route(s) are burning — go to your designated “safety zone.”
- Do not attempt to re-enter the area until firefighters have declared it safe.

Windstorms

Every fall and winter, windstorms cause extensive damage, including the loss of electricity throughout the Pacific Northwest. By taking action now, you can save lives and reduce the damage caused by windstorms and other weather-related hazards.

What to do before a windstorm

- Contact your local emergency management office or the National Weather Service to find out what types of storms are most likely to occur in your community.
- Assemble a disaster supply kit.
- If you have a home generator, make sure you know how to use it safely. Follow all instructions and contact the vendor, if necessary. Improper use of a generator can cause carbon monoxide poisoning.
- Find out who in your area might need special assistance, such as the elderly, disabled, and non-English speaking neighbors.
- Check with your veterinarian for animal care instructions in an emergency situation.
- If you live on a coastal or inland shoreline, be familiar with evacuation routes.
- Know what emergency plans are in place at your workplace, school and daycare center.
- Conduct a home safety evaluation to find out with nearby trees could fall in a windstorm.
- If you have an electric garage door opener, locate the manual override.

What to do during a windstorm

- Don't panic. Take quick action to protect yourself and help others.
- Turn off the stove if you're cooking when the power goes out, and turn off natural gas appliances.
- Never use a gas stove for heat.
- Never burn charcoal indoors.
- Never use a generator indoors or in a garage or carport.

- If you are indoors, move away from windows or objects that could fall. Go to lower floors in multi-story homes
- If you are outdoors, move into a building. Avoid downed power lines, utility poles and trees.
- If you are driving, pull off the road and stop away from trees. If possible, walk into a safe building. Avoid overpasses, power lines and other hazards.
- Listen to your radio for emergency instructions.

What to do after a windstorm

- Check yourself and those around you for injuries.
- Evacuate damaged buildings. Do not re-enter until declared safe by authorities.
- Call 9-1-1 only to report a life threatening emergency.
- If you smell gas or hear a hissing sound indoors — open windows and leave the building. Turn off the gas source and call your gas company. Do not use matches, candles, open flames or electric switches indoors.
- If the power goes out, keep refrigerator and freezer doors closed to keep food frozen for up to two days.
- Provide assistance to your neighbors, especially the elderly or disabled.
- Try to make contact with your out-of-area phone contact, but avoid making local telephone calls.
- Monitor your portable or weather radio for instructions or an official "all clear" notice. Radio stations will broadcast what to do, the location of emergency shelters and medical aid stations, and the extent of damage.

Preparing For Winter Storms

Winter storms can range from moderate snow over a few hours to blizzard conditions with blinding, wind-driven snow or freezing rain that lasts several days.

The time to prepare is before the snow falls and ice forms.

Preparing for winter storms

- Listen to your radio or television for winter storm forecasts and other information.
- Prepare your home for cold weather. Install storm windows. Insulate outside walls, attics and crawl spaces. Wrap pipes, especially those near cold outer walls, or in attics or crawl spaces. Repair leaks in the roof, around the doors and in the windows.
- Have appropriate cold weather clothing available.
- If you have a kerosene heater, refuel your heater outside and remember to keep it all at least three feet from flammable objects.
- Make sure your fireplace functions properly.
- Have rock salt and sand on hand for traction on ice.
- Fill your gas tank before the snow starts falling.

During a winter storm

- Wear several layers of loose fitting, light weight, warm clothing rather than one layer of heavy clothing. Wear mittens rather than gloves. Wear a warm, woolen cap.
- Do not drive unnecessarily.
- Reduce the temperature in your home to conserve fuel.
- Heat only the areas of your home you are using. Close doors and curtains or cover windows and doors with blankets.
- Use alternative heat methods safely. NEVER use a gas or charcoal grill, hibachi or portable propane heater to cook indoors or heat your home.

- Never use a generator indoors or in a garage or carport.
- Be careful when shoveling snow. Do not overexert yourself.
- Be sure to eat regularly. Food provides calories that maintain body heat.
- Watch for signs of frostbite and hypothermia, slurred speech, disorientation, uncontrollable shivering, stumbling, drowsiness and body temperature of 95 degrees Fahrenheit or less.
- If you become trapped outside, get out of the wind and stay dry. Build a lean-to or snow cave if nothing else is available. Do not eat snow; it will make you too cold.
- Bring your dogs and cats inside during cold weather.

In your vehicle

- Make sure someone knows where you are going. Stay on the main roads.
- If you must stop, remain inside the vehicle. Use a bright distress flag or your hazard lights to draw attention to your vehicle.
- If trapped in a blizzard, clear your tail pipe and run your engine and heater for 10 minutes every hour. Open your window slightly.
- During night hours, keep the dome light on in the car so rescue crews can see your vehicle.
- Keep an emergency kit in your vehicle. Include a three-day supply of water and non-perishable food that can be eaten without being cooked. Include a blanket or sleeping bag for each passenger, a flashlight, cell phone, shovel, sack of sand or kitty litter, jumper cables, flare, coffee can with lid and toilet paper.

Keeping citizens informed.

The Lassen County Sheriff continues to make huge strides in protecting our community. CODERED is a new local alerting system allowing officials the ability to notify the public immediately of potential dangers. The system allows you to be notified by your local emergency response team in the event of emergency situations or critical community alerts. Examples include: evacuation notices, bio-terrorism alerts, boil water notices, and missing child reports.

Uses: The CodeRED system is used to send critical communications, from evacuation notices to missing child alerts.

Message Playback: You may hear the last message delivered to your phone through the CodeRED system by simply dialing back the number on your Caller ID.

Privacy: Your contact information remains private and will only be used for community notifications.

Make Sure You Get the Call: If your community has licensed CodeRED, you may already be in the system. To ensure you receive notifications, go to their website and enter your contact information, including multiple phone numbers, text and email addresses.
